vast and diverse brooklyn is often portrayed in literature as a place of traditional community values and face to face relations distinct from anonymous capital driven manhattan brooklyn fictions discovers what such representations of the new york borough can teach us about diversity and the individual the local and the global combining analysis of popular texts such as sister souljah s the coldest winter ever with more canonical novels such as jonathan lethem s the fortress of solitude this study draws on the work of a variety of theorists on community and globalization and uses brooklyn as a case study for an exploration of the complex relationship between romantic ideals of community and global economic forces with cities often depicted as sites of conflict and fear this is a crucial contribution to our understanding of the contemporary urban community and the ethical issues involved in conceptualizing and portraying it in literature cognitive science is the interdisciplinary study of the human mind as far as the exact relationship between the cognitive sciences and other fields is concerned however it appears that interdisciplinary exchange often remains unrealized possibly because of the uni directional application of theories concepts and methods which impedes the productive transfer of knowledge in both directions in the course of the cognitive turn in the humanities and social sciences many disciplines have selectively borrowed ideas from core cognitive sciences like psychology and artificial intelligence the day to day practice of interdisciplinarity thus thrives on one directional borrowings focusing on cognitive approaches in linguistics and literary studies this volume explores bi directionality a genuine transdisciplinary interchange in which both disciplines are borrowing and lending the contributions take different perspectives on bi directionality some extend uni directional borrowing practices and point to avenues and crossroads while others critically discuss obstacles challenges and limitations to bi directional transfer un conmovedor retrato de una ciudad y una poderosa reflexión sobre la felicidad brooklyn follies es el auster más espléndido new statesman una novela seductora inmensamente entretenida pero que esconde un poderoso aguijón en su cola the guardian una historia fascinante y cautivadora sobre la terrible belleza de las familias y el poder redentor del amor la escritura de auster está llena de sorpresas usa today con sesenta años recién divorciado y recuperándose de una dura enfermedad nathan glass se retira al barrio neoyorquino de brooklyn el lugar donde pasó su temprana infancia en busca de un apacible retiro para los últimos años de su vida y sin más ocupación que la escritura de el libro del desvarío humano un compendio de historias sorprendentes de deslices y disparates glass pasa los días frecuentando el café cosmic diner prendado de la camarera conversando con su recién recobrado sobrino tom y con el peculiar propietario de la librería donde este trabaja el retiro que nathan había planeado se transformará poco a poco en un reencuentro con la vida un canto a la amistad y a la esperanza informal revealing unexpected this book is a captivating and thought provoking meditation how faith in all its facets remains profoundly relevant for and in our culture when the italian writer antonio monda sat down to talk religion with american cultural leaders he went straight for the big questions o the oprah magazine some of the most well known and well respected cultural figures of our time enter into intimate and illuminating conversation about their personal beliefs about belief itself about religion and about god antonio monda is a disarming rigorous interviewer asking the most difficult questions he often begins an interview point blank do you believe in god that lead to the most wide ranging conversations an ardent believer himself monda talks both with atheists asked what she feels when she meets a believer grace paley replies i respect his thinking and his beliefs but at the same time i think he's deluded and other believers their discussion ranging from personal images of god michael cunningham sees god as a black woman derek walcott as a wise old white man with a beard to religion's place in american culture from the afterlife to the concepts of good and evil from fundamentalism to the bible and almost without fail the conversations turn to questions of art and literature toni morrison discusses virginia woolf and william faulkner richard ford invokes wallace stevens and david lynch draws attention to the religious aspects of bu uel fellini and harold ramis's groundhog day paul auster is one of the most acclaimed figures in american literature known primarily as a novelist auster's films and various collaborations are now gaining more recognition evija trofimova offers a radically different approach to the author's wider body of work unpacking the fascinating web of relationships between his texts and presenting auster's canon as a rhizomatic facto-fictional network produced by a set of writing tools exploring auster's literal and figurative use of these tools the typewriter the cigarette the doppelgänger figure the city evija trofimova discovers auster's writing machine a device that works both as a means to write and as a construct that manifests the emblematic writer figure this is a book about assembling texts and textual networks the writing machines that produce them and the ways such machines invest them with meaning embarking on a scholarly quest that takes her from between the lines of auster's work to between the streets of his beloved new york and finally to the man himself paul auster's writing machine becomes not just a critical investigation but a critical collaboration raising important questions about the ultimate meaning of auster's work and about the relationship between texts their authors their readers and their critics an inside look into paul auster's art and craft the inspirations and obsessions mesmerizing and dramatic in turn a remarkably candid and often surprisingly dramatic investigation into one writer's art craft and life a life in words is rooted in three years of dialogue between auster and professor i b siegumfeldt starting in 2011 while siegumfeldt was in the process of launching the center for paul auster studies at the university of copenhagen it includes a number of surprising disclosures both concerning auster's work and about the art of writing generally it is a book that's full of surprises unscripted yet amounting to a sharply focused portrait of the inner workings of one of america's most productive and successful writers through all twenty one of auster's narrative works and the themes and obsessions that drive them masculinity in contemporary new york fiction is an interdisciplinary study that presents masculinity as a key thematic concern in contemporary new york fiction this study argues that new york authors do not simply depict masculinity as a social and historical construction but seek to challenge the archetypal ideals of masculinity by writing counter hegemonic narratives gendering canonical new york writers namely paul auster bret easton ellis and don delillo illustrates how explorations of masculinity are tied into the principal themes that have defined the american novel from its very beginning the themes that feature in this study include the role of the novel in american society the individual and urban society the journey from innocence to awareness of masculinity the archetypal image of the absent and or patriarchal father the impact of homosocial relations on the everyday performance of masculinity male sexuality and the male individual and globalization what connects these contemporary new york writers is their employment of the one of the great figures in the history of literature the flâneur these authors take the flâneur from the shadows of the manhattan streets and elevate this figure to the role of self reflexive agent of male subjectivity through which they write counter hegemonic narratives of masculinity this book is an essential reference for those with an interest in gender studies and contemporary american fiction this collection examines the many internal and external factors affecting cognitive processes editor shulamith kreitler brings together a wide range of international contributors to produce an outstanding assessment of recent research in the field these contributions go beyond the standard approach of examining the effects of motivation and emotion to consider the contextual factors that may influence cognition these broad and varied factors include personality genetics mental health biological evolution culture and social context by contextualizing cognition this volume draws out the practical applications of theoretical cognitive research while bringing separate areas of scholarship into meaningful dialogue
